REPORT OF THE MONITORING OFFICER

OUTCOME OF A CODE OF CONDUCT INVESTIGATION – COMPLAINT AGAINST THE MAYOR

(Report prepared by Edwina Adefehinti and agreed with the Chair of the Panel)

9. Consultation with Independent Person
10. Conclusions
11. Annex 1- Mayor's apology
12. Annex 2- Mayor's undertaking
13. Annex 3- The relevant law and code

1 Purpose of the report

- 1.1 In accordance with the Cambridge and Peterborough's Combined Authority's (CPCA's) Complaints Procedure, the Monitoring Officer is required to report the outcome of a Members' Code of Conduct investigation to the Audit & Governance Committee.
- 1.2 In this case, the Investigator's finding was that the Mayor had breached the Code of Conduct in regard to Disrepute and Civility
- 1.3 This Decision Notice gives the background to the complaint and the outcome of the Hearing Panel (hereafter referred to as the 'Panel') which met on 14 November 2023. The Panel comprised three members of the Audit & Governance Committee (one from each political party) and the Independent Chair of Audit and Governance.

2 Preamble

- 2.1 The Panel satisfied itself that the Investigation had been thorough and accepted the findings. The Mayor accepted the findings and that he had breached the Code of Conduct in regard to Disrepute and Civility.

- 2.2 The Panel sought advice from the Investigator and Independent Person on the severity of the breaches. It noted that, while not the worst kind, these breaches were serious and had had ramifications on officers, complainants and the CPCA. Therefore, the Panel determined that sanctions should be imposed.
- 2.3 The Panel imposed four sanctions which were available to them in the Constitution and under the law.
- 1) To publish their findings
 - 2) A report with the findings of the Panel to be taken to the next Combined Authority Board
 - 3) The Mayor to provide a written apology and, in consultation with the Monitoring Officer, determine the appropriateness of providing a written apology directly to one or more of the complainants. (The Mayor's apology is at Annex 1). (The Monitoring Officer sent the Mayor's apology to two complainants on Friday 17th 2023.).
 - 4) The Mayor to undertake not to repeat the behavior (the Mayor's undertaking is at Annex 2) and agree with the CEO appropriate development & training, including HR practice when in a senior member role. To be completed within the next 6 months
- 2.4 The Panel also recommended that:
- The CPCA reviews the induction process for when a new Mayor takes office.
 - The A&G reviews the relevant parts of the Constitution for lessons learnt and recommend any changes to the CA Board
- 2.5 The Panel considered that the sanctions available in the Constitution could be strengthened but recognised the limitations placed on Local Authorities in the Localism Act 2011. The Panel recognised its duties to maintain standards and the overriding purpose of the sanctions regime, which is to uphold the standards of conduct in public life and maintain confidence in local democracy.
- 2.6 The Panel sought representations from the legal adviser to the Panel, from the CPCA's independent Person, from the independent investigator and from the Mayor's legal representative, in deciding whether or not to publish the investigator's Report - the options were to publish either a full or a redacted version of the Report, or not to publish at all. After deliberation, the Panel decided unanimously not to publish the investigator's Report.
- 2.7 The Mayor apologised to two complainants on 17th November, via an email sent by the Monitoring Officer to the complainants.

3 Background to the investigation, the Code and the complaints/allegations

- 3.1 An anonymous complaint was received against the Mayor in October 2021 (First Complaint).
- 3.2 The investigator noted that the First Complaint involved the actions of both the Mayor and another individual, but the other person was no longer employed by the CPCA. The investigation was therefore only concerned with the Mayor's alleged breaches of the Members' Code of Conduct and Complaints Procedure (Code).
- 3.3 The First Complaint was expressed as a "whistleblowing" complaint. It was initially considered under the CPCA's whistleblowing procedure and an independent investigation was carried out.

- 3.4 Following the conclusion of that process, the Monitoring Officer determined on 22 April 2022, taking account of the views of the CPCA's independent Person, that the First Complaint should be formally investigated in accordance with Part 19 of the Code as a potential Code of Conduct breach/es against the Mayor
- 3.5 Following the appointment of the independent investigator in April 2022, two further complaints relating to the actions of the Mayor were received on 9 May 2022 (the Second Complaint) and 11 May 2022 (the Third Complaint).
- 3.6 The Monitoring Officer determined, taking into account the views of the CPCA's independent Person, that the both the Second and Third Complaint should be formally investigated in accordance with Part 19 of the Code. The Monitoring Officer communicated this decision to the independent investigator. The Mayor was subsequently made aware of the Second and Third Complaints, and he was furnished with copies of them before he was interviewed as part of the investigation
- 3.7 The investigation concluded on 27th September 2023, and the Monitoring Officer then assessed the Report's findings. The Monitoring Officer decided that the matter should be referred to the Panel for a determination.
- 3.8 The Monitoring Officer recommended that the Panel:
- i) Note and accept the independent investigator's report into alleged breaches of the CPCA's Member Code of Conduct by the Mayor, Dr Nik Johnson.
 - ii) Should hold an abridged hearing as the Mayor had accepted the findings. A full hearing was not necessary, and the Panel could go into a confidential session once it was satisfied that it has sufficient information to determine the issues in the investigator's Report. The confidential session consisted of the Panel Members and their legal advisers.
 - iii) Determine whether there has been a breach of the Member Code of Conduct and, if a breach was upheld, to consider any further action that should be taken, or sanctions to be imposed, upon the Mayor.
 - iv) Consider, in relation to the confidential independent investigator's report, if the public interest and natural justice in maintaining the exemption outweighed the public interest in disclosing the report, and if not to then publish the report (in either full or redacted form) in addition to a decision notice.

4 Independent Investigator

- 4.1 The role of the independent investigator is to conduct an investigation under delegations of the CPCA's Monitoring Officer. The independent Investigator is expected to be fair and objective so they can establish the crucial facts of the matter and reach a conclusion on what did or did not happen.
- 4.2 The investigation was carried out by Mark Heath, who is a consultant with VWV, and Charlotte Rose, an Associate at VWV. Mark Heath is a solicitor with over 30 years of service within the public sector. He was, until December 2016, working at Southampton City Council where he was Solicitor to the Council and Monitoring Officer for 20 years.
- 4.3 Subsequent to that, he held the positions of Director of Place and subsequently Chief Operating Officer at Southampton City Council. He is highly experienced in all aspects of local government law, particularly standards and all aspects of local authority governance and decision making.
- 4.4 VWV is a full service commercial law firm, with approximately 80 Partners and over 350 lawyers, working across offices in Watford, London, Bristol and Birmingham. VWV have been providing legal advice to local authorities for over 20 years and have a national reputation for public sector work, acting for both central and local government clients.

- 4.5 Certain aspects of the First Complaint pertained to financial matters and certain aspects of the Third Complaint related to the leaking of information. In respect to these matters, independent third parties were appointed to investigate and consider. Where relevant, the investigator had regard to the findings of these third-party investigations undertaken by expert auditors.
- 4.6 It should also be noted that, during this investigation, the Mayor was unavailable to the independent investigator for a lengthy period for reasons outside of his control. This meant, amongst other things, that the independent investigator did not receive the Mayor's statement relating to his first interview (which took place on 20th September 2022) until March 2023, at which point the independent investigator was able to re-interview him about others matters; he then received back the Mayor's comments on that very quickly. One of the Complainants was also ill for a period and towards the end of the process, the independent investigator spent some time liaising with CPCA to find information that the complainant had been unable to supply. Following a search, the CPCA provided the independent investigator with the documents they were able to locate on their records.
- 4.7 The independent investigator's approach has reflected the lighter touch nature of the regime established under the Localism Act 2011 which removed the previous standards regime which had heavier sanctions.
- 4.8 The relevant law and Code to which the alleged breaches apply are at Annex 3.

5 Summary of allegations.

Category	Alleged breach	Alleged relevant behaviour	Source

Impartiality of officers of the Authority	Compromising or attempting to compromise the	Requesting employee to attend Labour event	Second Complaint

6 Does the code apply to the Mayor

- 6.1 Section 27(2) of the 2011 Act requires CPCA to adopt a Code "dealing with the conduct that is expected of members ... when they are acting in that capacity". The Code applies whenever a member is acting in the capacity as a member or co-opted member.
- 6.2 The legal principles to be applied in determining this are as follows:
- a) was the member, as a matter of ordinary English, actually conducting the business of their authority, including the business of the office of member;
 - b) a fact sensitive approach is required to the above; and
 - c) the question is one for the tribunal to determine, not a reasonable observer.
- 6.3 For completeness, the role of Mayor is within scope of the Code. The investigator then considered as an initial / preliminary issue whether the mayor was acting in an official capacity in relation to the alleged behaviour.
- 6.4 In the investigator's assessment, all of the allegations related to the Mayor's alleged conduct whilst in office and either in connection with official CPCA business, or otherwise in relation to matters closely connected with or relating to CPCA business.
- 6.5 As a result the investigator concluded that the Mayor was acting in his official capacity in relation to all of the allegations considered as set out above.

7 Investigator's Findings and Conclusions

Impartiality of officers of the Authority

- 7.1 The independent investigator considered the allegation of unacceptable conduct intended to overturn findings of a whistleblowing report for political purposes, in that the Mayor (in effect) ran a campaign to undermine officer decision making/processes, refused to accept outcome of internal processes, and called into question integrity of staff/officers. Whilst it is clear that the Mayor was unhappy in relation to the departure of an ex-employee, the evidence did not in the view of the independent investigator show the Mayor's behaviour amounted to a breach of the Code. He was entitled to challenge the report and outcomes. His methods may not always have been appropriate, but the independent investigator did not consider that the evidence supported the allegation. As a result, the independent investigator did not consider that the Mayor broke the Code by bullying to try to overturn the report.
- 7.2 On balance, the independent investigator concluded on the evidence before them that the Mayor did not breach the Bullying and Harassment standard (either through his own actions or his failure to address the actions of the others) in respect of this allegation.

Leaks

Leaking of the Whistleblowing report

- 7.3 This issue was the subject of an investigation by specialists. However the specialists' inquiry did not yield any evidence to tie the Mayor to the leak.
- 7.4 In relation to the leaked letter/ disclosure of confidential CPCA information to an ex-employee, there is no evidence that the Mayor leaked the letter. The Mayor did speak to a journalist, contrary to advice, but there is no evidence to support any contention that he personally supplied confidential information to him.

Sending an ex-worker's CV from the Mayor's work email to his home email.

- 7.5 The sending of the CV from the Mayor's work email to his home email was not at the time considered a breach of GDPR by the CPCA, as there was no proof that anyone other than Mayor saw it. In terms of him sending it to his personal email address, the CPCA's Monitoring Officer has confirmed that the relevant IT Policy / protocol was not in place / force at the material time. However, today it would be contrary to the CPCA's policies, a breach of that protocol and hence the Code,

- 7.6 The independent investigator reflected upon this further in the light of the Complainant's comments on the draft report, but the points made above remained, in the investigator's view, the deciding factors. Namely there was no evidence that it was shared with a third party and at the material time the CPCA's protocols did not prohibit the Mayor from sending the CV to his home email

Expenses allegation

- 7.7 Whilst the way in which expenses were handled within the Mayor's office may not have been as good as they should/might, the CPCA's control system was also not robust. The lack of challenge, lack of scrutiny and the failure to pick up duplicates are cited by the specialists who investigated this matter.
- 7.8 The Mayor denied culpability or responsibility for any failings although he was, of course, as Mayor ultimately responsible for his expenses claims.
- 7.9 However, given the weaknesses in the control system, the independent investigator did not believe that the Mayor, on balance, misused CPCA resources. He was entitled to rely on his staff to make claims correctly and for the system to function effectively, including the control framework which should have flagged/raised issues when they arose.
- 7.10 The control framework had clear weaknesses which contributed to the problem. Had it been effective it would have flagged issues early on and then errors or issues in claims could have been addressed.
- 7.11 On balance, the independent investigator did not consider that the evidence showed that the Mayor misused CPCA resources, but it did show that the Mayoral Office had not always processed claims correctly and the control regime system had weaknesses.
- 7.12 The independent investigator therefore concluded that the Mayor did not breach the Code of Conduct in this respect.

Bullying

- 7.13 The First Complaint alleged that there was a toxic culture and bullying behaviour within CPCA. Specifically, that the Mayor was intent on making sure that a Senior Officer left and didn't stay in post, and that other Officers should ignore the Senior Officer. The independent investigator considered the allegation against the Code and the Nolan principle of Leadership, noting that the behaviour of others within the Mayor's office was also relevant.
- 7.14 However, following the analysis of the facts, the independent investigator did not find that the Mayor had breached the code in regard to bullying.

Civility

- 7.15 The independent investigator considered that, if substantiated, the allegations in the First Complaint and the Third Complaint would amount to a failure to "treat Authority employees [...] with civility and respecting the role that they play" and were therefore relevant to the allegations that the Mayor has breached the "Civility" standard.
- 7.16 The independent investigator also noted there had been no allegations that they were aware of that the Mayor had failed to treat any members (i.e. fellow members) or members of the public with civility and respect. The allegations were therefore confined to his interactions with Officers (i.e. the second limb of the "Civility" standard) only.
- 7.17 It was relevant to understand and consider the outcome of the whistleblowing investigation (which included allegations of lack of civility and respect on the part of an ex-employee) and the relationship between the Mayor and that ex-employee. That was in order to assess to what extent the Mayor could be said to be responsible for the ex-employee's conduct, particularly taking account of the Nolan principles - specifically "Leadership" - as appropriate.

- 7.18 The independent investigator's assessment was that neither an alleged statement to staff nor the Mayor's personal treatment of a previous Senior Officer were sufficiently serious to warrant a finding that he breached the "Civility" standard, taking account of the protection afforded by Article 10. This did not mean that the Mayor's actions in either regard were acceptable.
- 7.19 The independent investigator also considered, in relation to Civility, the allegation that the Mayor was intent on making sure that an ex Senior Officer did not stay long; and that people should ignore that ex-Senior Officer and go to the Mayor and another ex-employee instead. The independent investigator noted what the ex-employee had to say in relation to the position of the Senior Officer generally, and also that the Mayor wished to encourage people to approach him. The independent investigator also considered that the lack of understanding of roles of responsibilities was no doubt a contributory factor to the perception that the Mayor's Office was eroding the role of a Senior Officer. Overall, the independent investigator found no evidence to support a view that the Mayor actively attempted to achieve either outcome.
- 7.20 The independent investigator considered that much of what was complained about in relation to the allegation of a bullying and toxic culture, which was also relevant to considering Civility, emanated from an ex-employee. Whilst the independent investigator was not investigating this ex-employee, their actions and the Mayor's awareness and response to the ex-employee's conduct was relevant, when taking into account the principle of "Leadership".
- 7.21 The independent investigator also took account of the relevant Nolan principle, which the Code requires them to take into account in interpreting the Code relating to Leadership, namely:
- 7.22 The independent investigator was also aware and took into account that the Code states:
- "Holders of public office should exhibit these principles in their own behaviour. They should actively promote and robustly support the principles and be willing to challenge poor behaviour wherever it occurs."*
- "1.5 Accordingly, when acting in your capacity as a Member or Co-opted Member
- ...
- (i) You must promote and support high standards of conduct when serving in your public post or Business Board post, in particular as characterised by the above requirements, by leadership and example."
- 7.23 The Mayor's evidence is that, with the exception of an incident between a Senior Officer and an ex employee in which he surmised they were equally at fault, he did not personally witness any inappropriate behaviour on an ex-employee's part.
- 7.24 On review of the evidence the independent Investigator found this implausible. The Mayor must have been aware of various and serious issues regarding the ex-employee's conduct. The issue was specifically drawn to his attention in September 2021.
- 7.25 Those involved at the time or who witnessed, were party to or later became aware of such interactions were quite entitled - in the absence of the Mayor's obvious intervention - to conclude that the Mayor was aware of and potentially even supportive of or directing the ex-employee's behaviour, or was behaving in such a way himself.

- 7.26 The independent investigator received different accounts and views as to the extent of the Mayor's knowledge of the ex-employee's behaviour; ie, whether the Mayor actively encouraged their conduct for his own purposes (i.e. was the controlling mind), or whether the ex-employee acted of his own instigation and the Mayor failed to address it.
- 7.27 The independent investigator commented that the Mayor may have spoken to the ex-employee about their behaviour, as he told the investigator he did, but there was no evidence of this; either direct evidence (e.g. a text message/email) or evidence in terms of a notable change in the ex-employee's conduct.
- 7.28 In terms of failure of "Leadership" (to respond to poor behaviour on the part of those within an office to which the Mayor had close oversight), the Independent investigator again took account of Article 10 where appropriate in terms of the Mayor's enhanced rights regarding freedom of expression.
- 7.29 The independent investigator therefore found that the Mayor had breached the code with regard to civility.

Disrepute

- 7.30 The independent investigator noted that in the messages he had seen between two ex-employees, one of the ex-employees was extremely critical of CPCA and the key players, including making extremely derogatory and potentially even threatening and defamatory remarks about them. However, the Mayor was not party to these messages. However, a small number of WhatsApp messages in which the Mayor did participate did include reference to a human resources activity and outcome. In the most part, this was the ex-employee sharing updates and their views regarding the process. The Mayor was aware such discussions were inappropriate. He should have intervened to end such discussions but did not. He did not instigate or post the information but was fully aware from the briefings he had had that this was confidential and not to be bandied about. He should certainly have shut down the ex-employee when they made reference to the matter to the Mayor and another ex-employee, but the Mayor failed to do so.
- 7.31 In the independent investigator's view, the failure of the Mayor to intervene/call out the bad behaviour showed a lack of respect and leadership that was essential to his office and as a result damaged the reputation of the role of Mayor.
- 7.32 The rationale for directly elected Mayors was to provide for clear and singular leadership, making it visible to all where the responsibility for decisions lay. The directly elected Mayoral model had been described as the strongest model of political leadership. This was because the model provided for one person, the directly elected Mayor, having complete and sole political responsibility; a single leader rather than as exists elsewhere in local government, a cabinet or committee system where accountabilities are blurred.
- 7.33 On balance, the independent investigator concluded that the Mayor was aware of the ex-employee's unacceptable behaviour towards others, and did not call out that behaviour; nor did the Mayor take sufficient and appropriate steps to stop it. In view of the seriousness of the conduct and the fact that this was, at the time, an employee of the CPCA, it would have been appropriate for the Mayor to engage with HR in the event that the ex-employee failed to take heed of any instructions from the Mayor or others requiring them to regulate their behaviour. Given the ex-employee's position, the independent investigator would have expected the Mayor to recognise the importance of doing so. His failure to intervene amounted to him condoning such behaviour. It was particularly surprising that the Mayor did not take suitable steps (including seeking support from HR) on receipt of the stark warning regarding the ex-employees conduct (in which the ex-employee was referred to as a "henchman") in an email to the Mayor in September 2021
- 7.34 As that single strong point of leadership, as the political leader of the CPCA, the Mayor should have set an example. Instead of that, his failure to act effectively was a significant failure of Leadership, something that a directly elected Mayor is specifically elected to deliver.

- 7.35 In contrast, the independent investigator did not consider that the failings of the Mayor damaged the reputation of the CPCA, and hence did not conclude that the Mayor, by his actions, also brought the CPCA into disrepute. Such a finding would only follow the most serious breach/es and the most culpable conduct with commensurate impact upon the body itself. The independent investigator's findings were serious, but the Mayor did not directly act in a disrespectful manner to employees or others. Nor did he directly bully. The disrepute he inflicted was upon himself in his role as Mayor, the political leader of the CPCA, due to his lack of leadership. The independent investigator believed that was a fair, proportionate and evidenced finding. To take the next step to make a finding that he also brought disrepute on CPCA would require something more culpable and significant, which was not present in this matter.

8 Other Points

- 8.1 The independent investigator was made aware during their investigation that members' behaviour at Board Meetings generally was sometimes an issue. This was something that he recommended that the Monitoring Officer reflect upon and intervene, should she feel it appropriate.
- 8.2 At the point of the investigation there were clearly governance issues, these may have been addressed but, if not, they should be.
- 8.3 The Mayor must adopt and practise sound governance practices. He needs to understand and, unless he has good lawful reason not to, abide by requirements around, for example, confidentiality.
- 8.4 The independent investigator understood that Induction processes for new Mayors (and others, as appropriate) had been revised but this was a significant issue, and the revised approach must not leave the CPCA in a similar position again.
- 8.5 The appointment of an ex-employee raised several issues in terms of the politically restricted / non-restricted post decision and the decision to appoint them which was not made on merit. This was a major contributory factor for all that followed, and the adverse impact was felt by all, including ultimately the ex-employee (and those negatively impacted by their conduct).
- 8.6 The failure to address the ex-employee's behaviour using appropriate processes and robustly at a much earlier stage needed to be reflected upon. Why that was not done needed to be understood, and the consequences recognised.

9 Consultation with Independent Person

- 9.1 At the beginning of the investigations David Pearl, one of the independent Persons for the CPCA was consulted and he agreed in April 2022 with the Monitoring Officer that the investigation should be referred to an external independent investigator.
- 9.2 Gillian Holmes, another of the CPCA's independent Persons, was consulted in this process from August 2023 onwards. She has confirmed that based on the content of the independent investigator's Report, into the conduct of the Mayor of Cambridgeshire & Peterborough, Dr Nik Johnson, her view is that the investigation was conducted in a thorough manner. The evidence relied upon, the legislative framework and the law pertaining to the alleged breaches were clearly set out. Where there were gaps in that evidence or where the investigators had relied on the expertise of others e.g. financial matters, it was clearly stated. The Report was balanced in terms of its critical findings and analysis, both of the Mayor, and in some instances of the Combined Authority.

- 9.3 She agreed with the assessment set out in the report that the Mayor, was acting in his official capacity in relation to each of the complaints made and so the Code of Conduct was engaged. She noted that there were some areas where the report writers indicated that their conclusions were finely balanced and which she considered with particular care. She referred specifically to the sections dealing with 'Bullying & Harassment' and 'Confidentiality & Access to Information'. Whilst the report writers concluded that there had not been a breach of the Code in respect of either of these specific allegations, she noted the comments made and found this a reasonable view to take.
- 9.4 In conclusion, she confirmed that it was her view that the report was fair, balanced and well-argued throughout. Based upon the evidence before her, primarily the report, she was of the view that the information contained in it supported its findings and conclusions that the Mayor, Dr Nik Johnson, has breached CPCA's Code of Conduct in relation to Civility & Disrepute.
- 9.5 The independent person subsequently received the evidence, and her views remained the same.

10 Conclusions

- 10.1 Mayor Dr Nik Johnson did breach CPCA's Code of Conduct in relation to Civility and Disrepute.
